BOER FIGHTERS GET HERE.

GEN. PEARSON AND FIVE COMPADES

He Says Kruger May Come Here After He Has

That Passed Between Roberts and Botha.

Commissary-General Samuel Pearson of the Boer army and five comrades whose homes previous to the war were in the Orange Free State arrived in this country yesterday on the steamer Statendam which sailed from Rotterdam. In the party are Commandant W. D. Synman and his sixteen-year-old son. Commandant A. Liebenberg. Hercules D. Veljoen and A. Spurier. They are all stopping at the Union Square Hotel. Gen. Pearson, who is the spokesman, says that none of them knows a single person in the United States. He is at years old, of medium height and built like a prize fighter. Previous to the war he was at the head of a firm of shipping agents.

The proposed intentions, it being against the principles of civilized warfare and extremety cruel to women and children.

This especially cruel in the case of aged women were it with regard to the wife of his Honor, the State President, who, as you must be aware, cannot travel without fear of losing her life, and it would simply mean a murder to force her to travel thus. The pretext mentions which sailed from the would simply mean a murder to force her to travel thus. The pretext mentions which sailed from the life, and it would simply mean a murder to force her to travel without fear of losing her life, and it would simply mean a murder to force her to travel thus. The pretext mention being brought over to us, is doubtless a delusion, since such precaution was not deemed necessary by you when our troops were in mediate vicinity of Fretoria. It is unnecessary to add that we have never received any information through women and children.

Fifth—in case your Excellency still persiste in carrying out your plans, which I trust will not be the case, I request your Excellency to give me notice in time of the date and particulars of their expulsion, as I intend to take capacity. If sympathy is expressed for us by the American people we might try and have this sympathy made practical. I was at the head of the commissary department of our army and saw much of the fighting. The last work I figured in was covering the retreat of Gen. Louis Botha's command to the Portuguese frontier. I had a dozen men with me and we tore up the railroads all along the line. We were constantly within striking distance the Portuguese line on Sept. 24. Then he doubled on the enemy, but I had to continue on into Portuguese territory. I went to Delagoa Bay, where I met my companions. Previous to the war they were British subjects, but joined our fight for independence. Had they been caught they might have been shot for treason, so we had to keep in hiding from the British spies until we boarded a steamer for Naples. Our wives and children are in the hands of the enemy.

From Naples we went to Brussels and then travelled about the Continent before sailing for America. After we have seen New York I will consult Montagu White, our representative at Washington, and decide on what to do.
"Will President Kruger come here?" wa

tive at Washington, and decide on what to do.

"Will President Kruger come here?" was saked.

"That I cannot say," replied Gen. Pearson; when he gets through in France he may visit this country, but I am not here to arrange for his coming. The Boers have about 18,000 men in the field carrying on the guerrilla warfare and Botha will keep on fighting as long as he has ten men to help him. The Boers will never give up the fight for Independence. A thing that ought to be stopped is the cruel treatment that our women have received at the hands of the British. Outrages have been frequently committed by the enemy, who have disregarded all laws of humanity. Gen. Roberts surely must have heard of these crimes, but he has taken no means to end or prevent them. The war has caused desolation which it will take the Transval a long time to recover from. Houses and farms were burned by both the Boers and the British. The enemy have stopped at nothing to make us give in. I had to destroy £100,000 worth of supplies to prevent the British capturing them.

"President Stevn of the Orange Free State told me before I left to tell the American people that his country would never be taken as long as he was alive. He its still there and fighting. President Kruser had to go away. He is 76 years old and was only an obstacle to the young men who are carrying on the war. But no better or more patriotic man than he ever lived. This talk that he carried to Europe with him a larke quantity of gold is absurd. Ger. Pearsen ave out the following correspondence between Gens. Roberts and Botha, as inducative of the manner in which the fighting is now being carried on:

once the war has entered into the stage of irregular or guerrilla fighting I should not be doing my duty toward the national interests if I continued to permit the families of those who are fighting against us to remain in towns guarded by us. This is not now a question of supply so much as one of policy and of securing ourselves against the transmission of intelligence to our enemes. I should estrem it a favor, therefore, if your Honor would warn all burghers or command those who have their families living in districts under the control of our troops to make early preparations for their reception and accommodation. The removal of these families will commence in a few days, those at Pretoria being the first sent. They will proceed by rail to the British outposts and there be made over to any one your Honor may depute to receive them.

"I will keep your Honor informed of the number to expect day by day and I will take this opportunity of informing you that as nearly all the passengers vehicles belonging to the Netherlands Rallway Company have been removed eastward and the families must, I regret to say, travel in trucks, for the most part open ones. I will endeavor to provide Mrs. Krüger, Mrs. Botha and as many other ladies as possible with closed carriages, but I am not sure that I shall succeed in finding any. I would suggest that your Honor should send suitable accommodations for them. I need not say how distasteful this measure is to me, but it is forced upon me by the apparent determination of you and your burghers to continue the war after all doubt as to its ultimate issue has ceased. I have the honor to be your obesitent servant.

SHOCKING CRUELTY TO HORSES. Truckman and Helper Accused of Building a Fire Under a Stalled Team.

Herman C. Stroh, a truckman of 745 Gates avenue, Brooklyn, will be arraigned before Magistrate Smith in Long Island City tomorrow on a charge of cruelty to animals ide against him by Miss Nellie Winans of Astoria, L. 1.

Stroh and a helper drove to Astoria several days ago with a loaded truck. While passing through Jamaica avenue, one of the streets that has been neglected since consolidation. the truck stuck in a mud hole. The horses refused to pull and after being severely beaten became balky. Stroh and his helper, it is alleged, built a fire under the team to make them move along. The fire was kindled of straw and light pieces of wood, it is said, and the flames shot up so high that they singed the animals, causing them to jump and plunge in their efforts to escape. The horses finally charged the truck out of the mud hole and were not stopped for some distance.

Mass Whanas lives near by. She says she saw the flathes leaping up around the team and tasked out and gave the trucknen a good scalding for their cruelty and promised to have them arrested. She took the name and address from the truck and sent the information to being's society. Whilam Dusing, an agent for the society, appeared before Magistrate Smith and secured warrants for Stroh and his helper. The name and address of the latter are unknown as yet, but when Stroh was arraigned he promised to bring the man to court to stand trial to-morrow. Miss Winans has secured the names of several witnesses.

Miss Winans is known in Astoria as a warm friend of doub animals. Many times she has in their efforts to escape. The horses finally

HOW FOREIGN MINISTERS WOULD PUN-ISH CHINA.

The President and Secretary Hay Discuss the Despatch. Which Will Be Laid Before the Cabinet To-day - The Agreement Said to Resemble France's Plan of Punishment.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26 -A long despatch from Minister Conger giving the details of the agreement reached between the foreign Ministers at Pekin was received at the State Department to-day and formed the subject of a conference this afternoon between the President and Secretary Hay. The agreement embodies conditions which the Chinese Government must accept as a preliminary to formal peace negotiations between itself and the Powers. It is subject to the ratification of the several governments involved, and the consideration given to it by the President and Mr. Hay was for the purpose of reaching a decision as to the policy of the United States regarding its terms. The agree-of the objectionable proposals. However, the President and his advisers have been consistent in pursuing the line of policy which they laid down at the beginning of the Chinese troubles, and should there be any modification of the American programme it will not affect the main principles for which the Government has been contending. Such conditions contained in the agreement as are regarded as impossible for the BOERS TO MOVE ON CAPE COLONY.

Report That Numbers of Dutch Residents Are Ready to Join Them.

Special Cable Despatch to The Sun.

London, Nov. 27.—A despatch to the Standard from Pretoria, dated Nov. 25, says it is resorted that the Boers propose to strike again at the borders of Cape Colony, where it is believed numbers of disaffected Dutch, with applies and hidden weapons, are waiting to coin them.

The Boers seem to be taking fresh heart. They have become extremely energetic in Ilmost every part of the Transvaal and the Drange River Colony.

Time transval of this Government, and its intention in regard to the proposal cannot be stated.

The representations to the Powers early last week were made by the United States in the hope of heading off any radical agreement by the Ministers. In this the Government that it has been partly successful. Assurances have been received from several nations that they are in accord with the ideas of this Government that impossible conditions must not be demanded of the Chinese. All the Powers have not responded, but there have been such satisfactory indications of a desire for moderate action on the part of those whose answers have come that this Government feels almost confident the trepresentations to the House of the Chinese, all the powers have not responded, but there have been such satisfactory indications of a desire for moderate action on the part of those whose answers have come that there will be an overwheiming sentiment in favor of its ideas.

TO FIGHT TAMMANY IN BROOKLYN Citizens Getting Together for the Battle Next

The following letter has been sent to a num ber of prominent citizens in Brooklyn: BROOKLYN, Nov. 24, 1900.

DEAR SIR: Will you please meet with other gentlemen who have signed the recently issued public statement of the Citizens' Union, in the Art Association Rooms, 174 Montague street, on Tuesday evening, Nov. 27 at 8 o'clock, when a committee will be appointed to take the necessary steps to organize for the redemption of the city from Tammany control? Suggestions regarding the most desirable programme to follow will be gladly received. Yours truly, Ludwig Nissen, GRORGE FOSTER PEABODY. HENRY A. GOULDEN, WILLIS L. OGDEN,

ALEX. E. ORR. "We intend simply to form a little organization in Brooklyn," said Ludwig Nissen, "and appoint a committee to look after the Assembly district organizations. We hope to have organizations in each Assembly district Our idea is that to advocate at this time the name of any particular man for Mayor, Comptroller, or other office would simply tend to retard the organization of the anti-Tammany forces. To present or advocate a particular man now would simply create jealousies and we might lose some of the best men who are now engaged in this movement. We want to put forth all our energy to crystallize and centralize the idea for the overthrow of Tammany. At the proper time each of these anti-Tammany organizations will send delegates to a general conference when an agreement will be entered into by all the parties interested for the overthrow of Tammany. Col. Ogden, Mr. Orr, Mr. Peabody and myself have discussed the question of the meeting to be held to-morrow night and we thought it wise to get the Brooklyn men together so that we could know what was to be done. We will probably appoint various committees who will carry on the organization work in order to strengthen it in every detail. #### LUKENBILL SAID TO HAVE LOST MONEY THROUGH LAWRENCE & CO.

Was Agent at Fernandina, Resigned and Asked to Have His Accounts Checked Shortage Was Considerable - Inkenbill Expected to Join the Complainants Against Lawrence.

FERNANDINA, Fla., Nov. 26 - E. D. Lukenbill, for many years agent of the old Florida Central and Pennsylvania Railroad here, and later of the Seaboard Air Line, resigned last week and made a request to the railroad officials that his accounts be checked over. He confessed then that he thought he would be short a small amount but how much he could not say. Experts were put to work and it is reported, though the railroad officials refuse to confirm or deny it, that they have found evidence that the shortage will be perhaps $30,000. Said a railroad official to-night:

"It is all guess work at present. It may be a small sum but the probabilities are that it will be a considerable amount: how much no one can say as yet. We had every confidence in Mr. Lukenbill and he has been connected with the road for many years, always with eatisfaction. What is the reason of this shortage we have no means of knowing at present. Mr. Lukenbill and his friends say that when the amount short is fully known they will make a satisfactory settlement. He is bonded but for what amount I cannot say as yet."

Lukenbill has been a very prominent resident here, is quite popular and has a large circle of friends. They all express confidence in him and say that a good explanation can be made of the charges against him.

Mr. Lukenbill will, it is expected at the District Attorney's office here, be one of the witnesses against Chester B. Lawrence & Co., the firm of alleged stock brokers whose members are under bail in this city. Assistant District Attorney Byrne said yesterday, when Lawrence, Underhill, his manager, and Wolbert, his bookkeeper, were arraigned again, that he had been informed without any details that Lukenbill had lost somewhere between $20,000 and $50,000 speculating with the firm, and would join the array of complainants. Whether or not he is in town yet is not known, such officials as are in the railroad office here having no information about the case.

A despatch to THE SUN says that D. H. Ground, a trusted employee of the Seaboard, has cone from Portemouth, Va., to Fernandina and taken charge of the Seaboard's affairs there. Early in December, when the accounts are checked up, the result may be made known. Vice-President and General Manager St. John said last night to THE SUN correspondent at Portsmouth that there was nothing he could properly make public.

"We are now investigating," he said, "and any statement I might make might defeat the ends of justice."

The additional complaints that are ready were not taken yesterday against Lawrence, were not taken yesterday against Lawrence. Underhill and Wolbert. Instead the clerk called the complainants to his desk and took their names and addresses. Mr. Byrne will summon the complainants to his office and examine the merits of their cases. The complainants are Ida M. Brown, 155 West Eighty-fourth street; Maria Cassidy, 886 Ninth avenue; Herman Wellner, 57 Last 115th street; A. Shea, 140 West Thirtieth street; Christian Becker, 1801 Madison avenue; Max Frank, 234 Henry street; Oliver H. Johnson, 84 East Fourteenth street; Bernard Boad, 1035 Third av nue, and Frederick A. Downa, 350 West Fourteenth street. It is expected that others will communicate with the Assistant District Attorney.

The examination has been adjourned to next Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Two elderly women in court said that they had lost considerable money in dealing with Lawrence, but they refused to make a complaint. One asserted that before Lawrence's assignment and subsequent arrest she had signed an agreement not to make any complaint or demand a statement of her account for sixty demand a statement of her account for sixty days.

Elizabeth M. Black, a seamstress has through Case & Newkirk, her lawyers, sued Lawrence for $1.500 damages. She says that she was induced by one of Lawrence's pamphlets to put up $570 in margins, that he never gave her any proper reports and that eventually he informed her that her margins were wiped out and that he had sold out her stock. She alleges on information and belief that he never bought or sold the stocks she ordered bought and sold.

ROBBED A CATHEDRAL SAFE. Boston Thieves Expected a Big Haul, but Were

Disappointed - Wanted Only Money. Boston, Nov. 26 .- Thieves ransacked the safe in the bookstore and undertaking establishment of Nicholas M. Williams, sexton of the Cathedral of the Holy Cross, at the corner of Washington and Union Park streets, adjoining the cathedral early this morning. They wanted nothing but hard cash. Rosaries with beads of gold and precious stones were left untouched. They thus succeeded in getting about $300. Circumstances indicate that the robbery had been planned with deliberation. The robhad been planned with deliberation. The rob-bers evidently expected that on the morning after a collection, the receipts in the sexton's office would amount to several thousand dollars. The money had been removed to another place last evening. A week ago, the clergy announced that yesterday's collections would be used to defray the expense of heating the cathedral, the parcehial house and the parish school and on account of the high price of coal, they urged that the contributions be liberal. This is a circumstance of which the burglars seemed aware and they accordingly went through the safe this morning with the sole intention of taking cash. of taking cash.

WHO LOST A LEFT EAR? Found in the Street -Physicians Say It Was Cut From Living Person.

Somebody's left ear, small enough to be a woman's, is in the possession of Coroner Burger of Brooklyn. He is anxious to find the owner, dead or alive. The ear was found on Sunday dead or alive. The ear was found on Sunday evening in Marcy avenue, between Putnam avenue and Madison street, and the finder sent it through the mail to a newspaper office in Brooklyn. The police were notified, but they have not been able to learn of any person who lost an car. Some physicians who saw the ear were of the orinion that it was cut from a living person. They say that there was no sign of decay, which indicated that the ear was amputated recently. The fiesh was also firm and lifelike.

"Maybe a Marcy avenue trolley car run over somebody and cut off the ear," a policeman suggested to Coroner Burger.

"In that case the ear would be mangled," said the Coroner. "The ear was cut from the head by a single stroke and must have been cut with a knife.

If there is no claimant for the ear to-day it will be sent to the morgue.

SEABOARD R. R. CASH GONE | MAYED THE MINERS DESPITE FIRE. Two Men Who Faced Instant Death Fearless

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Nov. 26.-Engineer John Moon and Supt. J. W. Smiley of the White Oak Fuel Company's shaft, White Oak, W. There were explosives in the building sufficient to wreck every house within hundred yards and to kill all the men in the shaft. Eight men were in the shaft when the fire started. Engineer Moon sent the car down the shaft to the men-below while he stood in imminent danger of being blown to pieces and while his hat and coat were scorched and burned upon him. Six men got into the car safely and two others clung to the sides. The two dropped back after the car started. Notwithstanding that the flames were roaring about him and the explosion of the dynamite was momentarily expected Moon sent the car back into the shaft once more and brought the two miners to the surface in safety. ## ENFORCE RAINES LAW NOW

THE BIG HOTELS SHUT BARROOMS AND CAPES AT 1 A. M.

General Order From the Police-Law Obered As It Hasn't Been Before for Years-Shan-ley's Didn't Hear of the Order-Likely to Be a Demand for All-Night Licenses. A general order was sent from Police Headquarters to the commanders of all precincts last night to the effect that the Raines law must be strictly enforced and that no liquor must be sold in any hotel or barroom in the city between 1 and 5 o'clock this morning. This order was obeyed literally in the big Broadway hotels and all of the well-known cafes in the theatre district except two. Shanley's places at Thirtieth street and at Forty-second street on Broadway were both open after I o'clock and drinks were served as usual

Shanley was not notified to close. The hotel cafés were shut up tight promptly at the hours fixed by law and outside of Shanley's, Rector's and Martin's were the only big Breadway cafés where even a meal without drinks could be had. The proprietor of Rector's said that he had not been notified to stop selling drinks at 1 o clock, but that he had heard of the order and had decided to abide by it. The hotel men, café proprietors and saloon keepers got the order from the plain clothes men of the several precincts about an hour before midnight. Edward Glennon, who is Chief Devery's personal representative in the Thirtieth street station and practically the commander of the at 11 o'clock with instructions to warn all proprietors that they would be called to account for any violation of the law

Edward Corey, the proprietor of the Haystation. The restaurant keeper insisted on market, was the only dive keeper to whom pressing the charge. The sergeant wrote it the order did not apply. He has a special all-might license.

Downtown in the East Side the order was as strictly enforced as up in the Tenderlion. There was no liquor to be had in the saloons of the Red Light district after 1 o'clock this morning and the only barroom on the Bowery that was open after that hour was at 2:15. That is backed by Tim Sullivan. The violation there was not serious, for ten minutes after

Up on the West Side the proprietors were not so particular about the minute of closing and a pollorman of one of the West Side stations when asked about the general order grinned and said, "We get that order about once a week, but we are not so young as we look.

JOKE ON WEDDING GUESTS.

Bride and Groom Married, Not Yesterday, but Two Years Ago.

Invitations were sent out the other day in this city and New Rochelle by Mr. and Mrs. William Beard Smith for the wedding reception of their daughter, Nettie Adele Smith. Ben-Jamin Badeau of New Rochelle was referred to as the bridegroom. The reception was held last night at the home of the bride's uncle, Mr. Frederick McCoun of 133 West Seventyfifth street. There were a hundred persons there from New Rochelle and almost as many more from this city. They all thought that Mr. and Mrs. Badeau had been married at home in the afternoon and offered their congratulations accordingly That's where the bride and bridegroom had their little joke on the guests, for Mr. and Mrs. Radeau were married two years ago in Yonkers by the Rev. T. H. Baragwanath of the Central Methodist Church.

by the Rev. T. H. Baragwanath of the Central Methodist Church.

The marriage was kept a secret from the members of both families and from all the friends of the bridal pair until about a week ago and then only the brother of the bridegroom and the sisters of the bride were told.

Mrs. Badeau went to New Rochelle about seven years ago to attend a private school there. She lived at the home of her uncle, George W. Croney Benjamin Badeau, the son of John E. Badeau, was one of the first young men she met there. He was about is years old then and she was it. They fell in love. On Nov. 26, 1898, they went out for a drive. The other end of the drive was the parson's house. When they returned Mrs. Badeau went to her uncle's home and the bridegroom went to his father's. The courtehip went right on Beyeral weeks ago there was something in a newspaper to the effect that Benjamin Badeau and Miss Nettle Adele Smith were to be married soon. The Rev. Mr. Baragwanath saw the paragraph and went to see Badeau. The clergyman advised against further secrecy. So Benjamin told his brother Albert and the brides told her sister, Miss Eudora Smith. The brother and sister agreed to act as best man and bridesmaid at a reception. Then the invitations were sent out.

The reception was from 7 until 11 o'clock and for four hours the bride managed to keep a straight face while her friends told her what a "lovely day she had had after all for the wedding."

Mr. Badeau is a member of the New Rochelle.

Are Held in Readiness. DENVER, Col., Nov. 28.-Colorado is getting ready for stiff fighting with the Indians. Adutant-General Overmeyer to-day wired Troop A of cavalry at Grand Junction to be in readings for an immediate call in case Game Commissioner Johnson's force should not be equal to sioner Johnson's force should not be equal to the Indians in the White River country. It is reported that more than five hundred Indians have left the reservation and are slaughtering hundreds of deer in the vicinity of the Yama and White rivers.

Game Commissioner Johnson and his deputies arrived at Rite last night and proceeded to Meeker by stage to-day. It is a forty-fivemile ride and will require the entire day. Many of the ranchmen insist that there are many warriors among the hunters this season and believe that they will send the young bucks and squaws on ahead and remain in ambush for the "Buckskin" wardens, as they call them.
People are leaving the ranches and going into Rifle and Meeker for safety, fearing a massacre.
